STRUNG UP.

Three Murderers Lynched at Shoals, Ind.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

SHOALS, Ind., March 10.—The notorious Archer gang, who have been confined in the county jail for murder, expiated their horrible crime at the hands of a mob at 12:30 o'clock last night. The mob marched quietly into town, directly to the jail, situated in West Shoals. When the jail was reached the doors were battered down and the iron cell doors treated likewise. After gaining an entrance and spending a short time with the doomed men, they were led out into the jail yard, the noose was placed around their necks, and after exchanging a few words, command was given to haul up, and in a very few moments the three lifeless bodies of John, Martin and Thomas Archer could be seen suspended in mid-air on the beautiful maple trees fronting the court house.

CHICAGO NEWS.

Diamonds Recovered—Women Want to Vote.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, March 10.—The police last night found from three to four thousand dollars worth of diamonds on the body of Charles Monell, arrested in company with a known thief. They are supposed to have been stolen from a jewelry store.

During the registration under the new city ordinance yesterday, several members of the Englewood Women's Suffrage association and Women's Rights club attempted to have their names entered, in order that they might vote on election day. They met with a positive refusal, and retired. One said all that was intended was to make a test case and carry the matter to the supreme court.

PITTSBURG, March 10.—Pneumonia is reported to prevail in epidemic form and to an alarming extent at McKeesport, Pa. The physicians attribute it to the natural gas.

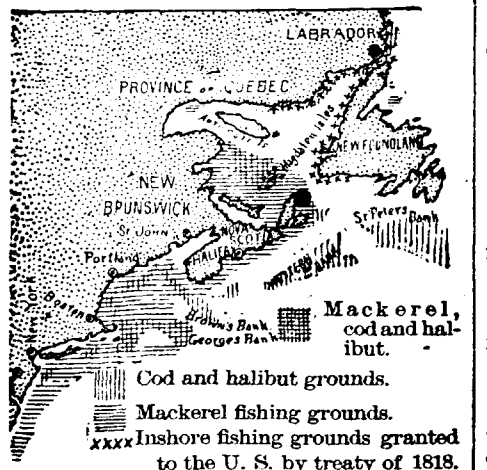

OUR FISHERIES.

Interesting Facts in Regard to This Great Industry.

Map of the Fishing Grounds—How and Where Mackerel, Cod and Halibut are Caught—What Becomes of Fish in Winter—Packing and Curing.

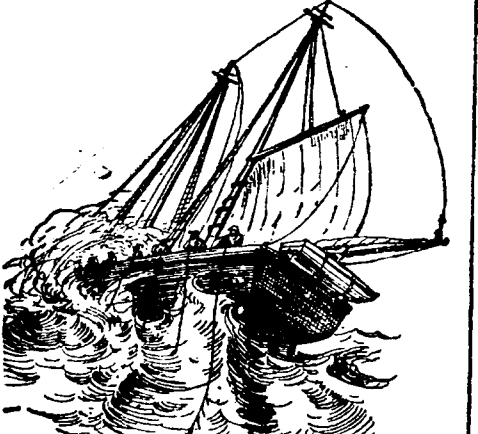

(Special Correspondence.)

Boston, March 2.—When Josh Billings said that "the codfish is the fruit of the ocean, which accounts for their being so salt," it was without doubt the first time it dawned on the minds of many people that the dried codfish of commerce was not always thus, nor was he always flat and spread out like the old-fashioned cross stick kite. A Boston Globe artist made some sketches recently among the fisheries, from which we produce our illustrations.

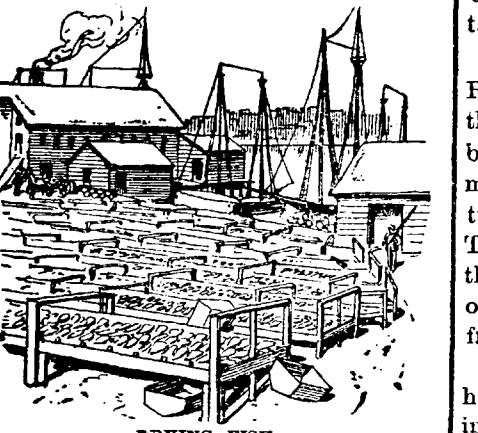

As the map shows, the mackerel is the most common fish, and for that reason the most profitable. The season for mackerel begins in March and ends in November, and what becomes of these fish in the meantime "the Lord only knows," so an old skipper said. Mackerel are caught in schools with immense seines of about 1,000 feet in length. This seine is dropped slowly out of a large row boat in such a manner as to describe a great circle, and thus inclose a great portion of the school of fish. Along the lower edge of the seine, which hangs 100 feet below the surface, are rings through which a rope runs like a running string. This is drawn taut when the circle is completed, thus closing the bottom and making an immense purse of the net. It frequently happens, though, that before the bottom of the net is closed it is found that "school is out," which means that the mackerel have detected the fishermen's little game and escaped by diving. To keep the mackerel school in, while the net is being dropped, barrels of chopped up porgies and clams are thrown into the water. One successful haul will yield 100 to 200 barrels of fish. When loaded on deck these fish are split open, cleaned and packed on ice or in salt, according as it is intended to deliver them in the market.

COD FISHING FROM THE RAIL.

In cod fishing, according to the old skipper, "you do not get so much pork for your shilling." The fishing grounds, as shown by the map, are situated at a greater distance. The Georges bank, for instance, is due east of Cape Cod about 200 miles. It is where the tide is strongest, the winds fiercest, and the sea the roughest, that the cod and halibut make their homes, and it requires a brave heart to face the cold and other dangers of this calling. Often during the winter the deck and rigging are constantly covered with ice. There are two methods of fishing. Fishing over the rail is shown in the illustration. Here each member of the crew tends a single line fastened to a peg in the rail called a "soldier"; this is the customary method in rough weather. When the sea moderates sufficiently trawl fishing is practiced. Trawls are lines which are buoyed so as to float on the water and extend for a quarter mile or more out from the vessel, each vessel carrying about two miles of these trawl lines. At every six feet on the trawls are fastened smaller lines with baited hooks. Small boats called dories, containing two men each, go out twice a day to follow up the trawl, haul in the smaller lines, remove the fish and re-bait the hooks. If a cod is caught he is simply thrown into the boat, while a halibut is killed first by hitting him on the nose. A halibut will weigh from 25 to 300 pounds, and "if a big one got into the dory alive," so a sailor said, "it would be an open question whether he was in charge of the dory or whether you was."

DRYING FISH.

All fish are cut open, and the entrails removed before packing on board the vessel. When a cargo is obtained of from 30,000 to 50,000 pounds of fish, the vessel sails for its harbor; here the fresh fish is shipped in refrigerator cars to market, and that intended for drying, smoking, or packing in brine is turned in to immense warehouses on shore. The illustration presents a scene in one of the yards where the codfish are dried. This is done by exposing them on "flakes" for a day or so in the open air. In case of rain, the fish are collected in piles, and covered with the odd-shaped boxes shown in the illustration, which cuts it into bricks for packing at the rate of 110 pounds a minute. Then there are smoke houses where the halibut and mackerel are cured. Some of the packing concerns have their own vessels. One possesses fifteen schooners, worth about $10,000 each. The total catch of mackerel for one year is about 300,000 barrels. Of fish 100,000,000 pounds is a fair annual average catch. This will give some idea of the magnitude of this industry, which is just now attracting attention before congress.

A. J. BOTHWELL.

DIGGING FOR GAS.

Fort Wayne People Interested in The Project at Muncie.

A few days ago a number of Muncie's citizens visited Findlay, Ohio. They came home inspired with the idea that Muncie was above a great natural gas reservoir. Steps were at once taken to organize a company to find it. A large sum of money has been subscribed, almost sufficient to complete the experiment. Experts have visited various places in and about that city, and report indications of the success of the enterprise. At Eaton a company has been organized for boring for gas in that locality, where the surface indications are more favorable than at Muncie. The company is composed of W. W. Worthington and R. C. Bell, of Fort Wayne, Jesse Nixon, B. F. Smith, A. N. Foreman and George W. Carter. A year or two ago a shaft was sunk to a depth of 600 feet in that vicinity by a company prospecting for coal. Gas in a considerable quantity was observed, but no thought was then taken of its use.

A good many Indiana people, under the thirty-two-dollar-and-twenty-cent rate to California, are traveling to the Pacific on the theory that it is cheaper to go than to stay. The rate from Los Angeles to Kansas City is down to $4; to New York, $20.

Superintendent Gwinn, of the railway mail service, was in Indianapolis yesterday. He has been making an inspection of the district preparatory to taking office next month. He has found that the service, considering the numerous changes of the past year, to be in good condition.

The city council will be asked to impose a license tax of $100 upon Indianapolis printing offices. It is understood that the Typographical union will support the measure. It is thought that many small offices, who do not employ union men, will be frozen out under the tax.

The Bluffton Presbyterian church, Rev. G. G. The Central Union Telephone company has issued legal notice to 474 subscribers in Indianapolis, twenty-six at Lafayette, and fifty-four at Terre Haute that their contracts will be terminated March 31st, and their telephone service discontinued. The contracts of the remaining subscribers can not be terminated until June 30, as they did not sign the contracts providing that fifteen days notice was sufficient. Forty-one toll stations in Indiana have also been discontinued.

John F. Miller, senator from California, died in Washington on Monday. He was a member of the Indiana senate before the war, and became colonel of the 24th Indiana volunteers, receiving promotion for gallantry at the battle of Nashville. He was born near South Bend. Subsequently he was collector of customs at San Francisco. Gov. Stoneman is likely to appoint a democrat as temporary successor to the deceased—probably D. M. Delmas, a lawyer of San Francisco.

The Knights of Labor have numerically outgrown any organization in Indianapolis. A Knight told an Indianapolis News reporter that there are now nearly seven thousand members in that city alone, and that the number is rapidly increasing. They have no local grievances, but are understood to be preparing to demand of railroads the inauguration of the eight hour rule in May. Nearly every employe on one line, and a majority on all the local lines, are already said to be Knights, and when the demand is made the organization expects to be too powerful to be denied.

The Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan and Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Pacific Railway company held their annual meeting yesterday for the election of five directors, at which 151,010 shares were voted. The following men were elected: A. L. Hopkins, R. Sage, O. T. Sageles, F. L. Ames and E. L. Clarke. No report was read.

TELLING EFFECT

Of the Strike on St. Louis Business.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

St. Louis, March 10.—The stoppage of freight on the Missouri Pacific and the diversion of trade consequent is being felt by the merchants, who fear it may become permanent. The suburban passenger traffic is almost wholly suspended, no movement of any kind toward a settlement has yet been made by either side.

KNIGHTS EXPELLED.

St. Louis, March 10.—General Superintendent Kerrigan, of the Missouri Pacific railway, issued an order this morning expelling from the Missouri Pacific yard all Knights of Labor. This includes the men appointed by the Knights to guard the company's property.

The most important rumor is that the employes of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, at St. Joe, will inaugurate a strike on that road, and that the Wabash men may also be expected to join the throng of strikers, and before the trouble ends all the railroad systems of the country will be involved, and the dispute will finally be reduced to a fight between railroad corporations and organized labor.

St. Louis, March 10.—The Missouri Pacific Railway company will attempt to resume freight traffic to-morrow.

At Fort Worth the men employed to run the engines were attacked and forced to vacate their cabs. The strikers then "killed" engines.

NOTHING IN IT.

Chicago, March 10.—The St. Louis story of a strike at 5 o'clock here this afternoon, on all the Chicago roads is denied by all concerned.

FIVE THOUSAND MEN OUT.

Troy, N. Y., March 10.—Spinners in the knitting mills at Cohoes were ordered out this morning by the Knights of Labor, causing a general shut down. About 5,000 operators interested.

THE KNIGHTS MUST NOT GO INTO POLITICS.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—Master Workman Powderly, upon being shown the statement, that the Knights of Labor of Decatur, Ill., had formed a political party under the auspices of the order declared it untrue, and said that if such a thing is attempted by any district or local organization of Knights of Labor, its charter will be recalled. The order must not be turned into a political party. While reform in politics is sought for, it must not come at the expense of the order. No district, local or state assembly has it in its power to declare itself a political machine for any purpose.

ASH WEDNESDAY.

How the Occasion Originated and Was Titled—Catholic Lenten Rules.

This morning began the solemn lent season, and to-day is styled Ash Wednesday, the latest possible date for the event and for a period of forty days, excluding Sundays, an embargo will be laid on all social pastimes and dissipation, so far as the faithful are concerned. The first day of Lent is known as Ash Wednesday, a holiday in the Catholic, Episcopal and Lutheran churches. The day derives its name in this wise: The palms consecrated and used on Palm Sunday of one year were kept until this day on the following year, when they were burned, and their ashes blessed by the priests and sprinkled on the heads of the people. The sprinkling of ashes was performed with many ceremonies and great devotion. On Ash Wednesday, also, persons convicted of notorious sin were put to open penance. The holy day was generally observed by the churches named, and festivities appropriate to the occasion were indulged in.

SHOT!

Fired at Logan by Riddlebarger.

The Southerner Angered at the Eads Letter and Hesitates not to Say so.

He Denounces the Canal Scheme and Intimates that he will yet Prove it a Fraud.

WASHINGTON.

Riddlebarger and Logan Have a Tilt.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The chair laid before the senate Mr. Logan's resolution for an investigation by the committee on rules of Mr. Eads' letter denying that he had a representative on the floor of the senate.

Mr. Riddlebarger complained bitterly that Mr. Logan had got Eads' letter criticizing him (Riddlebarger) into the Record as part of his speech.

Mr. Logan said had nothing to do with getting the letter into the Record. Mr. Riddlebarger said he would always resent imputations such as contained in that letter. The letter had no business here. He was not so great a soldier as the senator from Illinois, but he would yet discover a conspiracy to make the United States government an endorser for the Eads Ship Canal company. "We all know," he said, "that Ex-secretary Windom was at the head of that company."

Logan said, as the letter requested investigation of the charges against Eads, he (Logan) had presented it to the senate. That was all, and he would do that for any respectable man who asked him to do so. Logan, at the suggestion of several senators, modified his resolution, so as to provide for reference to Eads' letter to the committee on commerce. Mr. Riddlebarger said he would decline to appear before any committee. What he had to say would be said to the senate and in open session. He did not believe in this senate becoming more English than the house of lords. The matter went over without action.

The chair then laid before the senate the resolutions from the judiciary committee concerning the resolutions of the senate and president. Mr. Fugh replied to Edmunds' speech of yesterday to prevent that senator from changing the character of the question between the senate and the president.

The senate committee to attend Mr. Miller's funeral is Messrs. Stanford Jones, of Nevada, Hale, Allison and either Beck or Harrison. The special train will consist of three coaches, one for the body, one for the family and one for the congressional committee.

Attorney General Garland, conversing with a friend, laughed at the report, and said that he had never expressed any such opinion as that attributed to him, citing that in case of non-action by the senate on the president's nominations at the expiration of a session of congress the suspended officers will all go back, and further that the president cannot, during the recess, reappoint the same men upon whose nominations the senate took no action. "Nothing in it," said he.

A FAIR TRIAL IN TERRE HAUTE.

The nineteenth century is said to be the age of skepticism, and so perhaps it is as regards religion, but its practical spirit inclines it to look favorably on everything that promises immediate benefit and it is always ready to give everything that seems useful a fair trial. The West especially has ever been open and cordial to all new ideas, and this may partly explain why Athlaphoros, the sovereign remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia, has secured such a strong footing in Terre Haute. A well-known citizen who has the most implicit faith in it is Mr. R. Forster, the furniture dealer at No. 320 Main street. Mr. Forster, when recently asked at his warehouse as to the benefit he had derived from Athlaphoros, answered as follows:

"Yes, I have used Athlaphoros with the very best satisfaction. I have had neuralgia for many years, and could not find any medicine that would give me relief until I commenced using Athlaphoros, and I can tell you I had used about everything."

"How did you first get confidence enough in Athlaphoros to try it?"

"Well, it was just in this way. I was suffering very much at the time from my neuralgia. One Saturday evening Mr. Mallette, a manufacturer of wire mattresses, who is in business in Chicago, and lives at Elgin, Ill., came down to spend Sunday with me. Finding me suffering as I was he said:

"Get some Athlaphoros. It is good, my wife used it and was cured of her neuralgia by it."

"Without waiting for me to say much about it he went out and bought a bottle of the medicine. I took some that night and the next day I was as free from pain as if I had never had neuralgia. I spent several hours in a walk that Sunday until Mr. Mallette, which the day before would have been misery for me. During the summer months I am never troubled with neuralgia, but if I should be again I would certainly use Athlaphoros, for I am fully convinced of its merits."

"I have recommended Athlaphoros to several persons and have yet to learn of an instance where it did not accomplish its mission. Among others I recommended it to Mrs. Richards, who lives in Casey, Ill. I saw her in the city a few days ago and asked her if she had used it. She said that she had taken two bottles. It was helping her, and she said that she was going to get some more."

Mrs. C. A. Armstrong, of No. 123 South Second street, is another resident of Terre Haute, Ind., whom Athlaphoros has cured. "I used it for neuralgia," she says, "and it cured me. I had been troubled for about three years with what seemed at times neuralgia, and then again rheumatism. I was never free from pain. The very first dose of Athlaphoros I took gave me relief, and after using only two bottles my soreness is all gone and I am feeling much stronger. My daughter was also cured of neuralgia by it."

"Yes, I can say Athlaphoros did everything for me," is the answer to the question, "I was so sick with neuralgia that I could not sit up and suffered the greatest pain. Mother sent me a half bottle of Athlaphoros, the first few doses of which gave me relief. All I used was the half bottle and I have not had any neuralgia since."

If you cannot get Athlaphoros of your druggist, we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLAPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

IN Germany recently was held the "Coopers' Festival," which occurs in Munich every seven years. Those who took part in the Coopers' Dance wore green skull-caps with blue and white feathers, silver-bordered crimson jackets, black velvet knee-breeches, white stockings and shoes with silver buckles. Each dancer held above his head a half hoop of evergreens, from which hung a small keg.

The owner of Maud S. recently said: "Very few people realize the fact that there are only about half a dozen days in the year when a horse is able to do his best on the turf, yet such is the truth. The track must be in perfect condition. There must be no wind, the thermometer must register between 80 and 90 degrees, and then, when all these conditions are fulfilled, the horse must be in the best of spirits."

While grading and repairing the railroad track near The Dalles, Oregon, recently, one of the workmen found a large, oval-shaped piece of petrified wood. Close examination disclosed the fact that it was almost divided in two parts, and after a little pulling the inside was exposed to view. There, bedded in the hard stone, was a worm about an inch and a half long and as hard as the stone that surrounded it.

EVERY schoolboy is supposed to know what a river is, yet Judge Brown, of the United States District Court of New York, has given a decision which confers on the time-worn geographical definition all the authority of legal recognition. He has decided that East River, so called, is not a river. He says a river is a considerable stream of water, that has a current flowing from the higher level that constitutes its source to its mouth. The East River, it seems, lacks this essential and can not lay claim hereafter to the title of river without committing contempt of court.

THAT brilliant woman, Mme. Edmond Adam, whose salon was once the headquarters of bright people who did not bow the knee to Napoleon III., and whose ambition has long been to make of Paris an ancient Athens and of France a Greek republic, is again agitating the question of visiting this country and investigating the sources and aspects of New York society. With her perfect detestation of Wagner, whose music, she says, always reminds her of the tramp of Bismarck's soldiers across the fields of France, she will be interested in noticing the American triumphs of the great composer.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., has one young man who will henceforth view with alarm all attempts of women to secure more rights. He thinks they have too many now. The young man was engaged to be married, the day was set, the guests assembled, and all in readiness, when the bride-to-be suddenly changed her mind and refused to marry. The disappointed youth hid him to a magistrate to secure a warrant for the feckle girl's arrest, but was informed that no law covered his case, but that, on the contrary, woman was protected in her cherished privilege of jilting man. The Brooklyn young man is now undecided what course to pursue.

The constitutional changes in Japan, described by a Tokio correspondent, may appear somewhat obscure to the ordinary reader unversed in the mysteries of far-Eastern politics, but they may be described in a few words. In 1890 the first Parliament of Japan is to be elected, and in order to prepare for representative government it has been necessary to sweep away the Supreme Council of State, which has hitherto practically ruled the country under the Mikado himself. The heads of departments will now form a cabinet, each member of which is directly and personally responsible to the sovereign. The German system is taken as the model to be followed as closely as possible, although it may be hoped that the Japanese Premier may get on better with his Parliament than Prince Bismarck does with the Reichstag.

The valet seems to be occupying the position until recently so well filled by the coachman and the skating-rink man. The valet of Mr. George Pancoast, of New York, married Miss Pancoast, who has $50,000 in her own right, and great expectations besides. The Pancoasts claim that the marriage is illegal, and they will fight it out in the courts, but the young lady insists that she is the lily of the valet.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company state that it will not be known until after the 25th instant what disposition is to be made of the plan for the insurance of the employees of that company. It is to be referred back to the board of directors to be disposed of. It is estimated that the scheme has thus far cost the Pennsylvania Railroad company in various ways nearly $50,000. The officials of the company also assert that it would be unjust to the 18,000 employees of the company who desire to become members to abandon the plan entirely.

1. According to the report of the street commissioner, in relation to the fire cistern, near the corner of Jefferson and Lafayette streets, we recommend that said cistern be filled up.

2. We also recommend favorably the resolution of Councilman Ely to pave with brick the market space, except the stone curbing, in place of same we recommend a three inch plank, instead of stone curbing, according to the plans and specifications.

3. In favor of petition of owners along Calhoun street, to divvy said street from DeWald street to Hamilton street to DeWald street and the gutters paved with block stone to a width of four feet, instead of the three feet as per resolution of Councilman Schwartz. We have also a proposition of Joe Derheimer to pave the intersection of Calhoun and Columbia streets with McLine street, paving the council pays the expense of freight for the stone and furnishes the sand. Said Joe Derheimer agrees to furnish the stone and lay the same without any compensation from the city. His intention is to put the same down as a sample. ecuted their horrible crime at the hands of a mob at 12:30 o'clock last night.
The mob marched quietly into town, directly to the jail, situated in West Shoals. When the jail was reached the doors were battered down and the iron cell doors treated likewise. After gaining an entrance and spending a short time with the doomed men, they were led out into the jail yard, the nooses were placed around their necks, and after exchanging a few words, command was given to haul up, and in a very few moments the three lifeless bodies of John, Martin and Thomas Archer could be seen suspended in mid-air on the beautiful maple trees fronting the court house.

OUR FISHERIES.

Interesting Facts in Regard to This Great Industry.

Map of the Fishing Grounds—How and Where Mackerel, Cod and Halibut are Caught—What Becomes of Fish in Winter—Packing and Curing.

(Special Correspondence.)

BOSTON, March 2.—When Josh Billings said that "the codfish is the fruit of the ocean, which accounts for their being so salt," it was without doubt the first time it dawned on the minds of many people that the dried codfish of commerce was not always thus, nor was he always flat and spread out as the old-fashioned cross stick kito. A Boston Globe artist made some sketches recently among the fisheries, from which we produce our illustrations.

As the map shows, the mackerel is the most common fish, and for that reason the most profitable. The season for mackerel begins in March and ends in November, and what becomes of these fish in the meantime "the Lord only knows," so an old skipper said.
Mackerel are caught in schools with immense swarms of about 1,000 fish in length.
This school is dropped slowly out of a large row boat in such a manner as to describe a great circle, and thus enclose a great portion of the school of fish. Along the lower edge of the school, which hangs 100 feet below the surface, are rings through which a rope runs like a running string. This is drawn taut when the circle is completed, thus closing the bottom and making an immense purse of the net. It frequently happens, though, that before the bottom of the net is closed it is found that "school is out," which means that the mackerel have detected the fisherman's little game and escaped by diving. To keep the mackerel school in, while the net is being dropped, barrels of clipped up porgies and clams are thrown into the water. One successful haul will yield 100 to 200 barrels of fish. When loaded on deck these fish are split open, cleaned and packed on ice or in salt, according as it is intended to deliver them in the market.

COD FISHING FROM THE RAIL.

In cod fishing, according to the old skipper,
"you do not get so much pork for your shilling." The fishing grounds, as shown by the map, are situated at a greater distance. The George bank, for instance, is due east of Cape Cod about 200 miles. It is where the tide is strongest, the winds fiercest, and the sea the roughest, that the cod and halibut make their homes, and it requires a brave heart to face the cold and other dangers of this calling. Often during the winter the deck and rigging are constantly covered with ice. There are two methods of fishing. Fishing over the rail is shown in the illustration.
Here each member of the crew tends a single line fastened to a peg in the rail called a "soldier." This is the customary method in rough weather. When the sea moderates sufficiently trawl fishing is practiced. Trawls are lines which are buoyed so as to float on the water and extend for a number of miles or more out from the vessel, each vessel carrying about two miles of these trawl lines. At every six feet on the trawls are fastened smaller lines with baited hooks. Small boats called dories, containing two men each, go out twice a day to follow up the trawl, haul in the smaller lines, remove the fish and re-bait the hooks. If a cod is caught he is simply thrown into the boat, while a halibut is killed first by hitting him on the nose. A halibut will weigh from 25 to 300 pounds, and "if a big one got into the dory alive," so a sailor said, "it would be an open question whether he was in charge of the dory or whether you was."

DRAWING FISH.

All fish are cut open, and the entrails removed before packing on board the vessel.
When a cargo is obtained of from 30,000 to 50,000 pounds of fish, the vessel sails for its harbor; here the fresh fish is shipped in refrigerator cars to market, and that intended for drying, smoking, or packing in brine is turned in to immense warehouses on shore.
The illustration presents a scene in one of the yards where the codfish are dried. This is done by exposing them on "flakes" for a day or so in the open air. In case of rain, the fish are collected in piles, and covered with the old-shaped boxes shown in the illustration.
The dried cod is fed into a machine, which cuts it into bricks for packing at the rate of 110 pounds a minute. Thus there are smoke houses where the halibut and mackerel are cured. Some of the packing concerns have their own vessels. One possesses fifteen schooners, worth about $10,000 each. The total catch of mackerel for one year is about 500,000 barrels. Of fish 100,000,000 pounds is a fair annual average catch.
This will give some idea of the magnitude of this industry, which is just now attracting attention before congress.

DIGGING FOR GAS.

Fort Wayne People Interested in
The Project at Muncie.

A few days ago a number of Muncie's citizens visited Findlay, Ohio. They came home inspired with the idea that Muncie was above a great natural-gas reservoir. Steps were at once taken to organize a company to find it. A large sum of money has been subscribed, almost sufficient to complete the experiment. Experts have visited various places in and about that city, and report indications of the success of the enterprise.
At Eaton a company has been organized for boring for gas in that locality, where the surface indications are more favorable than at Muncie. The company is composed of W. W. Worthington and R.
C. Bell, of Fort-Wayne, Jesse Nixon, B.
F. Smith, A. N. Foreman and George W. Carter. A year or two ago a shaft was sunk to a depth of 600 feet in that vicinity by a company prospecting for coal. Gas in a considerable quantity was observed, but no thought was then taken of its use.

The Knights of Labor have numerically outgrown any organization in Indianapolis. A Knight told an Indianapolis News reporter that there are now nearly seven thousand members in that city alone, and that the number is rapidly increasing. They have no local grievances, but are understood to be preparing to demand of railroads the inauguration of the eight hour rule in May. Nearly every employe on one line, and a majority on all the local lines, are already said to be Knights, and when the demand is made the organization expects to be too powerful to be denied.

The Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan and Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago, two roads which are interested in the summer resort enterprise at Warsaw, are pushing the work of improvement at that point. The lakes are being connected by deep channels, beautiful parks are laid out, and with the opening of spring the work will be hurried forward to completion. A handsome joint station building will be erected one mile north of Warsaw, and the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan road, and excursion trains on the Pittsburg will be run over the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan track to reach it. General Manager will secure a large increase in passenger

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—The stoppage of freight on the Missouri Pacific and the diversion of trade consequent is being felt by the merchants, who fear it may become permanent. The suburban passenger traffic is almost wholly suspended, no movement of any kind toward a settlement has yet been made by

KNIGHTS EXPELLED.

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—General Superintendent Kerrigan, of the Missouri Pacific railway, issued an order this morning expelling from the Missouri Pacific yard all Knights of Labor. This includes the men appointed by the Knights to guard the company's property.

The most important rumor is that the employees of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, at St. Joe, will inaugurate a strike on that road, and that the Wabash men may also be expected to join the throng of strikers, and before the trouble ends all the railroad systems of the country will be involved, and the dispute will finally be reduced to a fight between railroad corporations and organized labor.

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—The Missouri

At Fort Worth the men employed to PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—Master declared it untrue, and said that if such a thing is attempted by any district or its charter will be recalled. The order cannot be turned into a political party.

While reform in politics is sought for, it must not come at the expense of the

ASH WEDNESDAY.

How the Occasion Originated and Lenten Rules.

This morning began the solemn lenten season, and to-day is styled Ash Wednesday, the latest possible date for the event and for a period of forty days, excluding Sundays, an embargo will be laid on all social pastimes and dissipations, so far as the faithful are concerned.
The first day of Lent is known as Ash Wednesday, a holiday in the Catholic, Episcopal and Lutheran churches. The day derives its name in this wise: The palms consecrated and used on Palm Sunday of one year were kept until this day on the following year, when they were burned, and their ashes blessed by the priests and sprinkled on the heads of the people. The sprinkling of ashes was performed with many ceremonies and great devotion. On Ash Wednesday, also, persons convicted of notorious sin were put to open penance. The holy day was generally observed by the churches named, and festivities appropriate to the occasion were indulged in.

Dry sermons are bad enough, but for the minister to preach them through his

SHOT!

Fired at Logan by Riddlebarger.

The Southerner Adgered at the Eads Letter and Hesitates not to Say so.

He Denounces the Canal Scheme and Intimates that he will yet Prove it a Fraud.

WASHINGTON.

Riddlebarger and Logan Have a Tilt.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The chair laid before the senate Mr. Logan's resolution for an investigation by the committee on rules of Mr. Eads' letter denying that he had a representative on the floor of the senate.

Mr. Riddlebarger complained bitterly that Mr. Logan had not Eads' letter criticizing him (Riddlebarger) into the Record as part of his speech.

Mr. Logan said had nothing to do with getting the letter into the Record.
Mr. Riddlebarger said he would always recent imputations such as contained in that letter. The letter had no business here. He was not so great a soldier as the senator from Illinois, but he would yet discover a conspiracy to make the United States government an endorser for the Eads Ship Canal company. "We all know," he said, "that Ex-secretary Windom was at the head of that company."

Logan said, as the letter requested investigation of the charges against Eads, he (Logan) had presented it to the senate. That was all, and he would do that for any respectable man who asked him to do so. Logan, at the suggestion of several senators, modified his resolution, so as to provide for reference to Eads' letter to the committee on commerce.
Mr. Riddlebarger said he would decline to appear before any committee.
What he had to say would be said to the senate and in open session. He did not believe in this senate becoming more English than the house of lords. The matter went over without action.

The chair then laid before the senate the resolutions from the judiciary committee concerning the resolutions of the senate and president. Mr. Pugh replied to Edmunds' speech of yesterday to prevent that senator from changing the character of the question between the senate and the president.

The senate committee to attend Mr.
Miller's funeral is Messrs. Stanford, Jones, of Nevada, Hale, Allison and either Beck or Harrison. The special train will consist of three coaches, one for the body, one for the family and one for the congressional committee.

Attorney General Garland, conversing with a friend, laughed at the report, and said that he had never expressed any such opinion as that attributed to him, citing that in case of non-action by the senate on the president's nominations at the expiration of a session of congress the unappointed officers will all go back, and further that the president cannot, during the recess, re-appoint the same men upon whose nominations the senate took no action. "Nothing in it," said he.

and then adjourned.
